

THE BLACK TSUNAMI

With horror we saw on television, the Japanese experience of a huge 9.0 scale earthquake, followed by a terrible tsunami. The first images show large amounts of black water entering the country side and passing over the protective wall barriers.

The water was black. Where did this black colour come from? None of the television reporters that covered the event commented about this aspect. You may ask: Why was the tsunami water of Japan black?

The earthquake and the tsunami is a natural phenomenon. The black water is manmade!

The black colour is putrefying sewage that accumulates on the ocean floors off the coast line of the continents where humans inhabit.

The Black Tsunami illuminates a painfully unnoticed reality that the great majority of the people on our planet ignore. Storm water, domestic faeces and industrial sewage has been discharged into our rivers, lakes and oceans for more than two thousand years. The Romans discharged contaminated water into the rivers and the oceans. The black mud spreads to cover the beds of oceans, lakes, rivers and manmade channels. They became the aquatic death zones created by man in darkness.

The United Nations has informed the Governments of the planet:

WE NEED TO CHANGE THE WATER MANAGEMENT OF THE PLANET NOW, OR IN A SHORT TIME, LIFE WILL CEASE TO EXIST ON THIS PLANET.

It is difficult to comprehend the magnitude of the damage to our planet ecology as one sits in an office. But today, one can look at Google maps and see, for one's self, the black areas off most of the coast lines of every continent. This is one of the many major man made catastrophes.

Japan Death Zone

Japan Black Tsunami Zone

The city of Rio de Janeiro discharges black rivers of putrefies active sewage into the beautiful beach of Copacabana. The Brazilian called it "The black tongue".

The Black Water Discharge in to Copacabana Beach, Rio de Janeiro

Copacabana Beach, Rio de Janeiro

In Jakarta, Indonesia, you can see large channels discharging putrefaction black waters into the oceans.

Contaminated waters are corrupted waters; if you want to know the people of a city look at their surrounding waterways.

The anaerobic infection within the Ocean floor has been exposed in full within the earth body. This can be called a black plague. This is a concentration of negative energy. When this made its way to the surface by accident is nearly impossible to deal with it. At all cost we must prevent this exposure.

Our planet has been infected by dark forces both in mind and body. The black waters are negative energy of man. The dark energies of greedy man are opposing the efforts of Eco-remediation.

Governments and institutions are directly responsible for the mismanaging water discharge. The result is a visible reflection of the people who induce those waters.

If you can see, openly, the black waters, the corruption is open and man is sick; by the contrary if the black waters are buried deep underground the corruption is hidden from the people, but is present.

In Sydney, Australia, the last Government buried the sewage 300 meters dip along a large tunnel that discharged the black waters at a great expense, at a deep ocean outfall into the Pacific Ocean. This need to stop today.

Bob Carr, Premier NSW Sydney Australia, visiting the New Sydney Black Water Tunnel to be discharge to the ocean

New York is building the biggest tunnel ever imagined to discharge the black sewage of city into the already contaminate harbour so most cities in the world has imitating the Roman cloaca's.

Universities have been teaching town planners engineers, architects graduate students, doctors and professors, the art of water and air contamination with little or no question about Ecology and environmental studies until recently after the formation of the US EPA on the 3 of December 1970 and the Atlantis inventions on water management since the eighties

Aristotle's dedicate part of his life to study Ecology; This knowledge was ignored by Universities when they set curriculums for the city designers. We assume the drainage of Roman cities were part of nature in reality belong to a dark historic period of time. The great majority of the cities around the planet have been built with this dark system that contaminate the water, the air the earth and left the fire out of balance by the removing of the storm water from the cities.

Impermeable cities surface (roofs, walls and roads) used hydraulic dark sciences to manage water in the environment. The use of hydraulic in storm water and sewage management has been the most contaminant, destructive and detrimental technology ever used in this planet. This system is the response of black mud colour of the Japanese Tsunami water.

The most incredible thing is that government, industries and your house are discharging thousands tons of effluents and contaminants effluents into the ocean every day by law.

Sydney politicians knowingly the difference in proposal, they opt by discharge the effluent to the sea. They spend hundreds millions of dollars to discharge effluent deep into the ocean. They change the Law of Clean Water Act. To allow the government contaminate legally. Their Doctors of science endorse and recommend this technology as "SAFE" or "SUSTAINABLE" solutions. The average person was impotent to argue against such a partnership.

As Leonardo da Vinci say "Nothing strengthens authority as much as silence"

In the streets of Asia, like in India, Singapore, Malaysia, and Indonesia y China these places are full of open filthy channels with putrefying waters and vermin. Similarly United States were built the famous concrete rivers of California.

Open putrid contaminant storm water sewage is used in Asia and others part of the world.

Can we correct millions of kilometres of built streets, roads and highways with contaminating storm water systems? Yes we can with your support.

THE GOODS NEWS

The good news is we now have environmental alternatives in water management technologies! We still believe humanity CAN DO the remediation. Now it's all up to your life is in your hands. It can be done, we know it is possible. You as a human being should take seriously the responsibility for the habitat in which you live.

The Black Tsunami has a long history, but also serves as a modern lesson. The enormous environmental degradation originated in Greece with the developed of the impervious water pipe, which lead to an ever increasing environmental impact carried on by the corrupted Roman Empire and those who continued its legacy till today.

The Romans Empire developed a lot of evils habits; one of them was the water management. Their major concern was to exploit the people they dominated with the desire to make easy money, have power and be famous; the three old evils of mankind. To do that they controlled the water supplied they provided to the people and the sewage they discharge away from their smelly cities.

Well! What has this to do with the Japanese tsunami you may ask? A lot! The Roman way of thinking developed the current domestic, industrial and storm water sewage systems in Japan. They adopt as well discharge the effluent and contaminated runoff into the rivers and eventually the oceans. Still is practiced in all their cities. As the cities evolved the cities designer's town planers, Architects and engineers continued connecting the pipes to the Cloaca's Maxima, that collected and centralized the sewage that then discharge to the waterways.

Temple de Vesta et abords de la Cloaca Maxima.

The later inheritors of the Romans methodologies, with their respective empires during their darkies' ages continue the legacy. The new Romans say Spanish, Portuguese, English, and Dutch and French even now the United States of America, began to invade and colonize the rest of world, they carried with them the Roman water management systems.

Practically every city today has adopted the Roman storm water and domestic sewage system. This Roman legacy is killing the aquatic life and soon if continue will kill us, unless we do the seemingly impossible, to change in our water management today by modern methodologies already in existence.

Atlantis Green cities technologies along with Green Systems India provides a clear clean alternative by using point source solutions water infiltration methods to eliminate transport of contaminated effluents, eliminate discharge and to transform the effluents into the purest water. We can live in paradise.

www.atlantiscorp.com.au || www.greensystems.net